ABOUT THE IBIC 2022

IBIC is a fruitful and successful gathering of the world's beam instrumentation community and it reflects the maturity of international collaboration in the field of beam instrumentation for accelerators. IBIC is dedicated to exploring the physics and engineering challenges of beam diagnostic and measurement techniques for particle accelerators worldwide. The conference program will include tutorials on selected topics, invited and selected talks, as well as poster sessions. An industrial exhibition and a tour to the SOLARIS National Synchrotron Radiation Centre will be organized.

The International Beam Instrumentation Conference (IBIC) series was created by the merger of the biannual North American Beam Instrumentation Workshop (BIW) and the European Workshop on Diagnostics and Beam Instrumentation in Particle Accelerators (DIPAC). IBIC 2022 is hosted by the SOLARIS National Synchrotron Radiation Centre, Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland, in collaboration with the GSI Helmholtzzentrum für Schwerionenforschung, Darmstadt, Germany.

The venue is the Auditorium Maximum, which is part of the 2nd Campus of the Jagiellonian University.
